

TO THE MOST HIGH AND MIGHTIE

Prince, IAMES by the grace of God King of Great Britaine, France and Ireland, Defender of the Faith, &c.

THE TRANSLATORS OF THE BIBLE,

wish Grace, Mercie, and Peace, through IESVS CHRIST our LORD.

Reat and manifold were the blessings (most dread Soueraigne) which Almighty God, the Father of all Mercies, bestowed vpon vs the people of England, when first he sent your Maiesties Royall person to rule and raigne ouer us. For whereas it was the expectation of many, who wished not well vnto our Sion, that vpon the setting of that bright Occidentall Starre Queene Elizabeth of most happy memory, some thicke and palpable cloudes of darkenesse would so have overshadowed this land, that men should have bene in doubt which way they were to walke, and that it should hardly be knowen, who was to direct the vusetled State: the appearance of your MAIESTIE, as of the Sunne in his strength, instantly dispelled those supposed and surmised mists, and gave vnto all that were well affected, exceeding cause of comfort; especially when we beheld the government established in your HIGHNESSE, and your hopefull Seed, by an vndoubted Title, and this also accompanied with Peace and tranquillitie, at home and abroad.

But amongst all our loyes, there was no one that more filled our hearts, then the blessed continuance of the Preaching of Gods sacred word amongst vs, which is that inestimable treasure, which excellethall the riches of the earth, because the fruit thereof extende thit selfe, not onely to the time spent in this transitory world, but directeth and disposeth men vnto that Eternall happinesse which is aboue in Heauen.

Then, not to suffer this to fall to the ground, but rather to take it vp, and to continue it in that state, wherein the famous predecessour of your HIGH-NESSE did leave it; Nay, to goe forward with the confidence and resolution of a man in maintaining the trueth of Christ, and propagating it farre and neere, is that which hath so bound and firmely knit the hearts of all your Maiesties loyall and Religious people vnto you, that your very Name is precious among them, their eye doeth behold you with comfort, and they blesse you in their hearts, as that sanctified person, who vnder God, is the immediate authour of their true happinesse. And this their contentment doeth not diminish or decay, but euery day increaseth and taketh strength, when they observe that the zeale of your Maiestie towards the house of God, doth not slack or goe backward, but is more and more kindled, manifesting it selfe abroad in the furthest parts of Christendome, by writing in defence of the Trueth, (which hath given such a blow vnto that man of Sinne, as will not be healed) and every day at home, by Religious and learned discourse, by frequenting the house of God, by hearing the word preached, by cherishing the teachers therof, by caring for the Church as a most tender and louing nourcing Father.

There are infinite arguments of this right Christian and Religious affection in your MAIESTIE: but none is more forcible to declare it to others, then the vehement and perpetuated desire of the accomplishing and publishing of this Worke, which now with all humilitie we present vnto your MAIESTIE. For when your Highnesse had once out of deepe iudgment apprehended, how conuenient it was, That out of the Originall sacred tongues, together with comparing of the labours, both in our owne and other forreigne Languages, of many worthy men who went before vs, there should be one more exact Translation of the holy Scriptures into the English tongue; your MAIESTIE did neuer desist, to vrge and to excite those to whom it was commended, that the worke might be hastened, and that the businesse might be expedited in so decent a maner, as a matter of such importance might justly require.

And now at last, by the Mercy of God, and the continuance of our Labours, it being brought vnto such a conclusion, as that we have great hope that the Church of England shall reape good fruit thereby; we hold it our duety to offer it to your MAIESTIE, not onely as to our King and Soueraigne, but as to the principall moover and Author of the Worke. Humbly craving of your most Sacred Maiestie, that since things of this quality have ever bene subject to the censures of ill meaning and discontented persons, it may receive approbation and Patronage from so learned and indicious a Prince as your Highnesse is, whose allowance and acceptance of our Labours, shall more honour and incourage vs, then all the calumniations and hard interpretations of other men shall dismay vs. So that, if on the one side we shall be traduced by Popish persons at home or abroad, who therefore will maligne vs, because we are poore Instruments to make Gods holy Trueth to be yet more and more knowen vnto the people, whom they desire still to keepe in ignorance and darknesse: or if on the other side, we shall be maligned by selfe-conceited brethren, who runne their owne wayes, and give liking vnto nothing but what is framed by themselves, and hammered on their Anuile; we may rest secure, supported within by the trueth and innocencie of a good conscience, having walked the wayes of simplicitie and integritie, as before the Lord; And sustained without, by the powerfull Protection of your Maiesties grace and fauour, which will ever give countenance to honest and Christian endeuours, against bitter censures, and vncharitable imputations.

The Lord of Heauen and carth blesse your Maiestie with many and happy dayes, that as his Heauenly hand hath enriched your Highnesse with many singular, and extraordinary Graces; so you may be the wonder of the world in this later age, for happinesse and true felicitie, to the honour of that Great God, and the good of his Church, through IESVS CHRIST our Lord and onely Sauiour.

Eale to promote the common good, whether it be by deuising any thing our selnes, or reuising that which hath bene laboured by o- things have thers, descrueth certainly much respect and esteeme, but yet findeth hern countbut cold insertainment in the world. It is welcommed with suspicion in stead of love, and with emulation in stead of thankes: and if there be any hole left for cavill to enter, and cavill, if it doe not finde a hole, will make one) it is sure to bee misconstrued, and in danger to be condemned. This will easily be granted by as many as know story, or have any experience. For, was there ever any thing projected, that sauoured any way of newnesse or renewing, but the same endured many a storme of gaine-saying, or opposition? A man would thinke that Civilitie, holesome Lawes, learning and cloquence. Synods, and Church-maintenance, (that we speake of no more things of this kinde) should be as safe as a Sanctuary, and I out of shot, as they say, that no man would lift up the heele, no nor dogge moone his tongue against the motioners of them. For by the first, we are distinguished from bruit-beasts led with sensualitic: By the second, we are bridled and restrained from outragious behaniour, and from doing of iniuries, whether by fraud or by violence: By the third, we are enabled to informe and reforme others, by the light and feeling that we have attained vato our selues : Briefly, by the fourth being brought together to a parle face to face, we sooner compose our differences then hy writings, which are endlesse: And lastly, that the Church be sufficiently provided for, is so agreeable to good reason and conscience, that those mothers are holden to he lesse cruell, that kill their children assoone as they are borne, then those noursing fathers and mo thers (wheresoener they be)that withdraw from them who hang vpon their breasts (and vpon whose breasts againe themselves doe hang to receive the Spirituall and sincere milke of the word) livelybood and support fit for their estates. Thus it is apparent, that these things which we speake of are of most necessary wse, and therefore, that none, either without absurditie can speake against them, or without note of wickednesse can spurne against them.

Yet for all that, the learned know that certains worthy men have been brought to vintimely death for none other fault, but for seeking to reduce their Countrey-men to good order and discipline : and that in some Common-weales it was made a capitall crime, once to motion the making of a new Law for the abrogating of an old, though the same were most pernicinus: And that certaine, which would be counted pillars of the State, and paternes of Vertue and Prudence, could not be brought for a long time to give way to good Letters and refined speech, but bare themselves as averse from them, as from rocks or boxes of poison: And fourthly, that hee was no babe, but a great clearke, that gauss foorth (and in writing to remaine to posteritie) in passion peraduenture, but yet he gave foorth, that hee had not seene any profit to come by any Synode, or meeting of the Clergie, but rather the contrary: And lastly, against Church-maintenance and allowance, in such sort, as the Embassadors and messengers of the great King of Kings should be furnished, it is not vaknowen what a fiction or fable (so it is esteemed, and for no better by the reporter himselfe, though superstitious) was deuised Namely, that at such time as the professours and teachers of Christianitie in the Church of Rome. then a true Church, were liberally endowed, a voyce forsooth was heard from heaven, saying: Now is poison powred down into the Church, &c. Thus not only as oft as we speake, as one saith, but also as oft as we do any thing of note or consequence, we subject our selves to every ones censure, and happy is he that is least tossed you tongues; for viterly to escape the snatch of them it is impossible. If any man conceit, that this is the lot and portion of the meaner sort onely, and that Princes are privileged by their high estate, he is deceived. As the sword denoureth aswell one as the other, as it is in Samuel; nay as the great Commander charged his souldiers in a certaine battell, to strike at no part of the enemie, but at the face; And as the King of Syria commanded his chiefe Captaines to fight wither with small nor great, save onely against the King of Israel: so it is too true, that Enuic striketh most spitefully at the fairest, and at the chiefest. David was a worthy Prince, and no man to be compared to him for his first deedes, and yet for as worthy an acte as euer he did (euen for bringing backe the Arke of God in solemuitie) he was scorned and scoffed at by his owne wife. Solamon was greater then Dauid, though not in vertue, yet in power: and by his power and wisdome he built a Temple to the LORD, such a one as was the glory of the land of Israel, and the wonder of the whole world. But was that his magnificence liked of by all? We doubt of it. Otherwise, why doe they lay it in his sonnes dish, and call vnto him for | easing of the burden. Make, say they, the prienous servitude of thy father, and bis sore role, lighter. Belike he had charged them with some leuies, and troubled them with some cariages: Herenpon they raise up a tragedie, and wish in their heart the Temple had never bene built. So hard a thing it is to please all, even when we please God best, and doe seeke to approve our selves to enery ones conscience.

this was imputed to him for naneltie, and arrogancie, and procured to him great obloquie. So the first Christened Emperour (at the leastwise that openly professed the faith himselfe, and allowed others to doe the like) for strengthening the Empire at his great charges, and prouiding for the Church, as he did, got for his labour the name Pupillus, as who would say, a wasteful! Prince, that had neede of a Guardian, or overseer. So the best Christened Emperour, for the love that he bare vnto peace, thereby to enrich both himselfe and his subjects, and because he did not seeke warre but find it, was judged to be no man at armes, (though in deed he excelled in feates of chiualrie, and shewed so much when he was prounked) and condemned for giving himselfe to his ease, and to his pleasure. To be short, the most learned Emperour of former times, (at the least, the greatest politician) what thanks had he for cutting off the superfluities of the lawes, and digesting them into some order and method? This, that he hath been blotted by some to bee an Epitomist, that is, one that extinguished worthy whole volumes, to bring his abridgements into request. This is the measure that hath been rendred to excellent Princes in former times, even, Cum bene facerent, male audire, For their good deedes to be evill spoken of. Neither is there any likelihood, that enuic and malignitic died, and were puried with the ancient. No, nn, the reproofe of Moses taketh hold of most ages; You are risen up in your fathers stead, an increase of sinfull men. What is that that bath been done? that which shall be done: and there is no new thing under the Sunne, saith the Wiseman: and S. Steuen, As your fathers did, so doe you. This, and more to this purpose, His Maiestie that now reigneth (and long, and long may he reigne, and his offspring for ever, Himselfe and children, and childrens children alwayes) knew full well, according to the ned vnto; namely that whosoeuer attempteth any thing for the publike (specially if it pertains to Religion, and to the opening and clearing of the word of God) the same setteth himselfe ypon a stage to be glouted upon by enery enil eye, yea, he casteth himselfe headlong upon pikes, to be gored by ene-ry sharpe tongue. For he that medleth with mens Religion in any part, medleth with their custome, nay, with their freehold; and though they finde no content in that which they have, yet they can-he would not suffer it to be broken off for whatsoever speaches or practises. It doth certainely belong vnto Kings, yea, it doth specially belong vnto them, to have care of Religion, yea, to know it aright, yea, to professe it zealously, yea to promote it to the yttermost of their power. This is their glory before all nations which meane well, and this will bring vntn them a farre most excellent weight of glory in the day of the Lord Iesus. For the Scripture saith not in vaine, Them that honor me, I will honor.

But now what pietie without trueth? what trueth (what sauing trueth) without the word of God?

If wee will descend to later times, wee shall finde many the like examples of such kind, or rather The highest unkind acceptance. The first Romane Emperour did nener doe a more pleasing deed to the learned, nor more profitable to posteritie, for conseruing the record of times in true supputation : then when he corrected the Calender, and ordered the yeere according to the course of the Sunne: and yet singular wisedome given vnto him by God, and the rare learning and experience that he hath attainot abide to heare of altering. Notwithstanding his Royall heart was not daunted or discouraged for this or that colour, but stood resolute, as a statue immoveable, and an anuile not easie to be beaten into plates, as one sayth: he knew who had chosen him to be a Spuldier, or rather a Captaine, and being assured that the course which he intended made much for the glory of God, & the building up of his Church, neither was it a vaine word that Eusebius delivered long agoe, that pietie towards God was the weapon, and the onely weapon that both preserved Constantines person, and avenged him of his Easterib.to ned from it must needs be muddie. This moued S. Hierome 2 most learned father, and the best linguist without controversie, of his age, or of any that went before him, to undertake the translating of the Old Testament, out of the very fountaines themselves; which hee performed with that euidence of great learning, indgement, industrie and faithfulnes, that he hath for ever bound the Church vnto him, in a debt of special! remembrance and thankefulnesse.

Now though the Church were thus furnished with Greeke and Latine Translations, enen before The master the faith of CHRIST was generally embraced in the Empire : (for the learned know that even in S. | ting of the Hieroms time, the Consul of Rome and his wife were both Ethnicks, and about the same time the great to the vulgar test part of the Senate also) yet for all that the godly-learned were not content to have the Scriptures toogues. in the Language which themselves vinderstood, Greeke and Latine, (as the good Lepers were not content to fare well themselves, but acquainted their neighbours with the store that God had sent, that they also might prouide for themselves) but also for the behoofe and edifying of the vn!earned which hungred and thirsted after Righteousnesse, and had sonles to be saued as well as they, they prouided Translations into the vulgar for their Countreymen, insomuch that most nations under heauen did shortly after their conversion, heare CHRIST speaking vnto them in their mother tongue, not by the voyce of their Minister onely, but also by the written word translated. If any doubt hereof, he may be satisfied by examples enough, if enough wil serue the turne. First S. Hierome saith, Multarum gentiü linguis Scriptura ante translata, docet falsa esse qux addita sunt &ec.i. The Scripture being translated before in the languages of many Nations, dath shew that those things that were added (by Lucian or Hesychius) are false. So S. Hieraine in that place. The same Hierome elsewhere affirmeth that he, the time was, had set forth the translation of the Seventy, sur lingua bominibus, i, for his countreymen of Dalmatia. Which words not only Erasmus doth understand to purport, that S. Hierome translated the Scripture into the Dalmatian tongue, but also Sixtus Senensis, and Alphonsus a Castro (that we speake of no more) men not to be excepted against by them of Rome, doe ingenuously confesse as much. So, S. Chrysostome that lived in S. Hieromes time, giveth evidence with him: The doctrine of S. Ichn (saith he) did not in such sort (as the Philosophers did) vanish away: but the Syrians, Egyptians, Indians, Persians. Ethiopians, and infinite other nations being barbarous people translated it into their (mother) longue, and have learned to be (true) Philosophers, he meaneth Christians. To this may be added Theodorit, as next vnto him, both for autiquitie, and for learning. His words be these, Euery Countrey that is under the Sunne, is full of these wordes (of the Apostles and Prophets) and the Hebrew tongue (he meaneth the Scriptures in the Hebrew tongue) is turned not onely into the Language of the Grecians, but also of the Romanes. and Egyptians and Persians and Indians, and Armenians, and Scythians, and Sauromatians, and briefly into all the Languages that any Nation useth. So he. In like maner, Vibilas is reported by Paulus Diaconus and Isidor (and before them by Sagomen) to have translated the Scriptures into the Gotbicke tongue; lobe Bishop of Sivil by Vasseus, to have turned them into Arabicke, about the yeere of our Lord 717: Beda by Cistertiensis, to have turned a great part of them into Saxon: Efnard by Trithemius, to have abridged the French Psalter, as Beda had done the Hebrew, about the yeere 800: King Alured by the said Cistertiensis, to have turned the Psalter into Saxon: Methodius by Auentinus (printed at Ingolstad) to have turned the Scriptures into || Sclauonian : Valdo, Bishop of Frising by Beatus Rhenanus, to have caused about that time, the Gospels to be translated into Dutch-rithme, yet extant in the Library of Corbinian : Valdus, by divers to have turned them himselfe, or to have gotten them turned into French, about the yeese 1160: Charles the 5, of that name, surnamed The wise, to have caused them to be turned into French, about 200. yeeres after Valdus his time, of which translation there be many copies yet extant, as witnesseth Beroaldus. Much about that time, egen in our King Richard the seconds dayes, lobn Treuisa translated them into English, and many English Bibles in written hand are yet to be seene with diners, translated as it is very probable, in that age. So the Syrian translation his trauaile he saw the Gospels in the Ethiopian tongue; And Ambrose Thesius alleageth the Psalter of minion, but hath bene thought vpon, and put in practise of old, even from the first times of the conuersion of any Nation; no doubt, because it was esteemed most profitable, to cause faith to grow in mens hearts the sooner, and in make them to be able to say with the words of the Psalme, As we have beard, so we have seenc.

vse them, and to get that, they must approve themselves to their Confessor, that is, to be such as are, if not frozen in the dregs, yet sowred with the leaven of their superstition. Howbeit, it seemed too much to Clement the 8. that there should be any Licence granted to have them in the vulgar tongue, and therefore he ouerruleth and frustrateth the grant of Pins the fourth. So much are they afraid of the light of the Scripture, (Lucifug & Scripturarum, as Tertullian speaketh) that they will not trust the people with it, no not as it is set foorth by their owne sworne meo, no not with the Licence of their owne Bishops and Inquisitors. Yea, so vinwilling they are to communicate the Scriptures to the peoples understanding in any sort, that they are not ashamed to confesse, that wee forced them to translate it into English against their wills. This seemeth to argue 2 bad cause, or 2 bad couscience, or both. Sure we are, that it is not he that hath good gold, that is afraid to bring it to the touch-stone, but he that bath the counterfeit; neither is it the true man that shunneth the light, but the malefactour, lest his deedes should be reproued: neither is it the plaine dealing Merchant that is viwilling loan 3.20. to have the waights, or the meteyard brought in place, but he that vseth deceit. But we will let them alone for this fault, and returne to translation.

The speaches and reasons. and of our Ad uersaries 2gainst this worke.

Many mens mouths have bene open a good while (and yet are not stopped) with speeches about the Translation so long in hand, or rather perusals of Translations made before: and aske what may be the reason, what the necessitie of the employment: Hath the Church bene deceived, say they, all this while? Hath her sweet bread bene mingled with leaven, her silver with drosse, her wine with water, her milke with lime? (Lacte gypsum male iniscetur, saith S. Ireney,) We hoped that we had bene in S. trans 1 th the right way, that we had had the Oracles of God delinered vinto vs, and that though all the world had cause to be offended and to complaine, yet that we had none. Hath the nurse holden out the breast, and nothing but winde in it? Hath the bread bene deliuered by the fathers of the Churchand the same proved to be lapidosus, as Seneca speaketh? What is it in handle the word of God decentulty, if this be not? Thus certaine brethren. Also the adnersaries of Iudab and Hierusalem, like Sanballat in Nebemiah, mocke, as we heare, both at the worke and workemen, saving : What doe these weak: lewes,&c. will ther make the stanes whole againe out of the beapes of dust which are burnt? although they build, yet if a fexe got up, be shall even breake downe their stony wall. Was their Translation good before? Why doe they now mend it? Was it not good? Why then was it obtruded to the people? Yea, why did the Catholicks (meaning Popish Romanists) alwayes goe in icopardie, for refusing to goe to heare it? Nay, if it must be translated into English, Catholicks are fittest to doe it. They have learning, and they know when a thing is well, they can manum de tabulá. Wee will answere them both briefly: and the former, being brethren, thus, with S. Hierame, Damnamus veteres? Minime, sea post priorum studie in domo Domini enod possumus laboramus. That is, Doe we condemue the ancient? In Rofes. no case: but after the endenours of them that were before vs, wee take the cest paines we can in the house of God. As if hee said, Being prouoked by the example of the learned that lived before my time, I have thought it my ductie, to assay whether my talent in the knowledge of the tongues, may be profitable in any measure to Goes Church, lest I should seeme to have laboured in them in vaine, and lest I should be thought to glory in men, (although ancient,) about that which was in thent. Thus S. Hierone may be thought to speake.

A satisfaction to our bre-

And to the same effect say wee, that we are so farre off from condemning any of their labours that traueiled before vs in this kinde, either in this land or beyond sca, either in King Henries time, or King Edwards (if there were any translation, or correction of a translation in his time) or Queene Elizabeths of ener-renoumed memosic, that we acknowledge them to have beene raised vp of God, for the building and furnishing of his Church, and that they deserve to be had of vs and of posteritie in enerlasting remembrance. The Indgement of Aristotle is worthy and well knowen: If Timotheus bad not bene, we had not had much sweet musicke; but if Phrynis (Timotheus his master) had not beene, wer lad not bad Timotheus. Therefore blessed be they, and most honoured be their name, that breake the yee, and glueth onset upon that which helpeth forward to the sturing of soules. Now what can bee more availeable thereto, then to deliver Gods booke vnto Gods people in a tongue which they vnderstand? Since of an hidden treasure, and of a fountaine that is sealed, there is no profit, as Ptolamee S. Epiphan. isso Philadelph wrote to the Radbins or masters of the Iewes, as witnesseth Epiphanius: and as S. Augustine saith; A man had rather be with his dog then with a stranger (whose tongue is strange vnto him.) Yet 19. de cuit. for all that, as nothing is begun and perfited at the same time, and the later thoughts are thought to being. be the wiser : so, if we building upon their foundation that went before us, and being holpen by their labours, doe endeuour to make that better which they left so good; no man, we are sure, hath cause to mislike vs ; they, we perswade our selues, if they were aliue, would thanke vs. The vintage of Abiever, that strake the stroake: yet the gleaning of grapes of Ephraim was not to be despised. ted the Bible as carefully, and as skilfully as he could; and yet he thought good to goe over it againe, and then it got the credit with the lewes, to be called norn depiseur, that is, accuratly done, as Saint Hierome witnesseth. How many bookes of profane learning have bene gone over againe and againe, by the same translators, by others? Of one and the same booke of Aristotles Ethikes, there are extant not so few as sixe or seven severall translations. Now if this cost may bee bestowed upon the goord, which affordeth vs a little shade, and which to day flourisheth, but to minrinw is cut downe; what may we bestow, nay what ought we not to bestow vpou the Vine, the fruite wherenf maketh glad the conscience of man, and the stemme whereof abideth for euer? And this is the word of God, which we translate. What is the chaffe to the wheat, saith the Lord ? Tanti vitreum quanti verum margaritum (saith Tertullian.) if a tov of glasse be of that rekoning with vs., how ought wee to value the true pearle? Therefore let no mans eye be euill, because his Maiesties is good; neither let any be grieued, that wee have a Prince that seeketh the increase of the spiritual; wealth of Israel (let Sanballats and Tobiahs doe so, which therefore doe beare their just reproofe) but let vs rather blesse God from the ground of our heart, for working this religious care in him, to have the translations of the Bible maturely considered of and examined. For by this meanes it commeth to passe, that whatsoener is sound alreadie (and all is sound for substance, in one or other of our editions, and the worst of ours farre better then their autentike vulgar) the same will shine as gold more brightly, being rubbed and polished; also, if any thing be halting, or superfluous, or not so agreeable to the originall, the same may bee corrected, and the trueth set in place. And what can the King command to bee done, that will bring him more true honour then this? and wherein could they that have beene set a worke, approve their duetie to the King, yea their obedience to God, and love to his Saints more, then hy yeelding their service, and all that is within them, for the furnishing of the worke? But besides all this, they were the principall motiues of it, and therefore ought least to quarrell it: for the very Historicall trueth is, that vpou the importunate petitions of the Puritanes, at his Maiesties comming to this Crowne, the Conference at Hampton Court having bene appointed for hearing their complaints: when by force of reason they were put from all other grounds, they had recourse at the last, to this shift, that they could not with good conscience subscribe in the Communion booke, since it maintained the Bible as it was there translated, which was as they said, a most corrupted translation. And although this was indged to be but a very poore and emptie shift; yet euen hereupon did his Maiestie beginne to bethinke himselfe of the good that might ensue by a new translation, and presently after gaue order for this Translation which is now presented vato thee. Thus much to satisfie our scrupulous Brethren.

Now to the later we answere; that wee doe not deny, may wee affirme and anow, that the very An answere to meanest translation of the Bible in English, set foorth by men of our profession (for wee have seene one of our adnone of theirs of the while Bible as yet)containeth the word of God, nay, is the word of God. As wersaries. the Kings Speech which hee vitered in Parliament, being translated into French, Dutch, Italian and Latine, is still the Kings Speech, though it be not interpreted by every Translator with the like grace, nor peraduenture so fitly for phrase, nor so expresly for sence, enery where. For it is confessed, that things are to take their denomination of the greater part; and a naturall man could say, Verum vbi multa nitent in carmine, non ego paucis offendor maculis, &c. A man may be counted a vertuous man , though hee have made many slips in his life, (els, there were none vertunus, for in many things we of fend all) also a comely man and louely, though hee have some warts upon his haud, yea, not onely freakles upon his face, but also skarres. No cause therefore why the word translated should bee denied to be the word, or forbidden to be current, notwithstanding that some imperfections and blemishes may be noted in the setting foorth of it. For what ever was perfect under the Sunne, where Apostles or Apostolike men, that is, men indued with an extraordinary measure of Gods spirit, and priniledged with the priniledge of infallibilitie, had not their band? The Rumanistes therefore in refusing to heare, and daring to burne the Word translated, did an lesse then despite the spirit of grace, from whom originally it proceeded, and whose sense and meaning, as well as mans weakenesse would enable, it did expresse. Iudge by an example or two. Pietarch writeth, that after that Rome had beene hurnt by the Galles, they fell soone to huilde it againe: but doing it in haste, they did not cast the streets, nor proportion the houses in such comely fashion, as had bene most sightly and couuenient; was Catiline therefore an honest man, or a good Patriot, that sought to bring it to a combustian? or Nero a good Prince, that did indeed set it on fire? So, by the story of Ecrair, and the prophesic of Haggai it may be gathered, that the Temple built by Zerubbabel after the returns from Babylon, was by no meanes to bee compared to the former built by Solomon (for they that remembred the former, wept when they considered the later) notwithstanding, might this later either haue bene abhorred and forsaken by the leuer, or prophaned by the Greeker! The like wee are to thinke of Translations. The translation of the Sementie dissenteth from the Originall in many places, neither doeth it come neere it, for perspicuitie, grauitie, maiestie; yet which of the Apostles did condemne it? Condemne it? Nay, they used it, (as it is apparent, and as Saint Hierome and most learned men doe confesse) which they would not have done nor by their example of vsing it, so grace and commend it to the Church, if it had bene vitworthy the appellation and name of the word of God. And whereas they vige for their second defence of their vilifying and abusing of the English Bihles.or some pieces thereof, which they meete with, for that heretikes (for sooth) were the Authours of the translations, (heretikes they call vs by the same right that they call themselves Catholikes, both being wrong) wee maruelle what diminitie taught them so. Wee are sure Tertullian was of another minde: Ex personis probamus fidem, an ex fide personas? Doe we trie mens faith by their persons? we should trie their persons by their faith. Also S. Augustine was of an other minde: for he lighting upon certaine rules made by Tychonius a Donalist, for the better understanding of the word, was not a shamed to make use of them, yea, to insert them into his owne booke, with giving commendation to them so farre foorth as they were worthy to be commended, as is to be seene in S. Augustines third booke De doctrina Christiana. Tu be short, Origen, and thew hole Church of God for certain hundred yeeres, were of an other minde: for they were so farre from treading under foote, (much more from burning) the Translation of Aquila a Proselite, that is, one that had turned Iew; of Symmachus, and Theodotion, both Ebioniles, that is, most vile heretikes, that they lovned them together with the Hebrew Originall, and the Translation of the Seventie (as hath bene before signified out of Epiphanius) and set them forth openly to be considered of and perused by all. But we weary the velearned, who need not know so much and trouble the learned, who know it already.

Yet before we end, we must answere a third canill and objection of theirs against vs. for altering and amending our Taanslations so oft; wherein truely they deale hardly, and strangely with vs. For to whom ever was it imputed for a fault (by such as were wise) to goe over that which hee had done. and to amend it where he saw cause? Saint Augustine was not afraide to exhort S. Hicrome to a Palinodia or recautation; the same S. Augustine was not asliamed to retractate, we might say renoke, many things that had passed him, and doth even glory that he seeth his infirmities. If we will be sonnes of the Trueth, we must consider what it speaketh, and trample youn our owne credit, yea, and you other mens too, if either be any way an hinderance to it. This to the cause: then to the persons we say, that of all men they ought to bee most silent in this case. For what varieties have they, and what alterations have they made, not onely of their Seruice bookes. Portesses and Breuiaries, but also of their Latine Translation? The Service booke supposed to be made by S. Ambrose (Officium Ambrosianum) was a great while in speciall vse and request: but Pope Hadrian calling a Councill with the ayde of Charles the Emperour, abolished it, yea, hurnt it, and commanded the Seruice-booke of Saint Gregorie viniuersally to be yeed. Well, Officiam Gregorianum gets by this meanes to be in credit, but doeth it continue without change or altering? No, the very Romane Seruice was of two fashions, the New fashion, and the Old, (the one vsed in one Church, the other in another) as is to bee seene in Pamelius a Romanist, his Preface, before Micrologus. The same Pamelius reporteth out of Radu! phus de Riuo, that about the yeere of our Lord, 1277. Pope Nicelas the third removed out of the Churches of Rome, the more ancient bookes (of Seruice) and brought into vse the Missals of the Friers Minorites, and commaunded them to bee observed there; insomuch that about an hundred yeeres after, when the abone named Radulphus happened to be at Rome, he found all the bookes to be new, (of the new stampe.) Neither was there this chopping and changing in the more anciem times onely, but also of late: Pius Quintus himselfe confesseth, that every Bishopricke almost had a peculiar kind of sernice most valike to that which others had: which moved him to abolish all other Breujaries, though neuer so ancient, and priviledged and published by Bishops in their Diocesses, and to establish and ratifie that onely which was of his owne setting foorth, in the yeare 1:68. Now, when the father of their Church, who gladly would heale the source of the daughter of his people softly and sleightly, and make the best of it, findeth so great fault with them for their oddes and jarring; we hope the children have no great cause to vaunt of their uniformitie. But the difference that appeareth betweene our Translations, and our often correcting of them, is the thing that wee are specially charged with; let vs see therefore whether they themselves bee without fault this way, (if it be to be counted a fault, to correct) and whether they bee fit men to throw stones at vs : O landem major parcas insane minori: they that are lesse sound themselves, ought not to object infirmities to others. If we should tell them that Valla, Stapulensis, Erasmus, and l'ines found fault with their vulgar Translation and consequently wished the same to be mended or a new one to be made, they would answere peraduenture, that we produced their enemies for witnesses against them; albeit, they were in no other sort enemies then as S. Paul was to the Galatians, for telling them the trueth; and it were to be wished, that they had dared to tell it them plainlier and oftner. But what will they say to this, that Pope Leo the tenth allowed Erasmus Translation of the New Testament, so much different from the vulgar, by his Apostolike Letter & Bull; that the same Leo exhorted Pagnin to translate the whole Bible.

Bible, and bare whatsoener charges was necessary for the worke? Surely, as the Apostle reasoneth to the Hebrewes, that if the former Law and Testament had bene sufficient, there had beene no need of the latter: so we may say, that if the olde vulgar had bene at all points allowable, to small purpose had labour and charges bene undergone, about framing of a new. If they say, it was one Popes prinate opinion, and that he consulted nuely himselfe; then wee are able to goe further with them, and to a nerre, that more of their chiefe men of all sorts, even their owne Trent-champions Paina & Vega, and their owne Inquisitors, Hieronymus ab Oleastro, and their own Bishop Isidorus Clarius, and their owne Cardinall Thomas à Vio Caietan, doe either make new Translations themselves, or follow new ones of other mens making, or note the vulgar interpretor for halting; none of them feare to dissent from him, nor yet to except against him. And call they this an uniforme tengur of text and indgement a bout the text, so many of their Worthies disclaiming the now received conceit? Nay, we wil yet come neerer the quicke: doth not their Parit-edition differ from the Louging and Hentenius his from them both, and yet all of them allowed by authoritie? Nav. doth not Sixtus Ouintus confesse, that certaine Catholikes (he meaneth certaine of his owne side) were in such an humor of translating the Scriptures into Lating, that Satan taking occasion by them, though they thought of no such matter. did striue what he could, out of so uncertaine and manifold a varietie of Translations, so to mingle all things, that nothing might seeme to be left certaine and firme in them &c? Nay further, did not the same Sixtus ordaine by an inuicable decree, and that with the counsell and consent of his Cardinals, that the Latine edition of the olde and new Testament, which the Councill of Trent would have to be authenticke, is the same without controversie which he then set forth, being diligently corrected and printed in the Printing-house of Patican? Thus Sixtus in his Preface before his Bible. And yet Clement the eight his immediate successon, publisheth another edition of the Bible, containing in it infinite differences from that of Sixtus (and many of them waightie and material) and yet this must be authentike by all meanes. What is to have the faith of our glorious Lord IESVS CHRIST with Yea and Nay, if this be not? Againe, what is sweet harmonic and consent, if this be? Therfore, as Demaratus of Corinth aduised a great King, before he talked of the dissentions among the Grecians, to compose his domesticke broiles (for at that time his Queene and his sonne and heire were at deadly fuide with him) so all the while that our adversaries doe make so many and so various editions themselves, and doe jarre so much about the worth and authoritie of them, they can with no show of equitie challenge vs for changing and correcting.

But it is high time to leave them, and to shew in briefe what wee proposed to our selnes, and what The purpose course we held in this our perusall and survey of the Bible. Truly (good Christian Reader) wee ne- of the Tranuer thought from the beginning, that we should neede to make a new Translation, nor yet to make their number of a bad one a good one, (for then the imputation of Sixtus had bene true in some sort, that our people had bene fed with gall of Dragons in stead of wine, with whey in stead of milke:) but to make a good one better, or out of many good ones, one principall good one, not justly to be excepted against that hath bene our indeauour, that our marke. To that purpose there were many chosen, that were greater in other mens eyes then in their owne, and that sought the truth rather then their own praise. Againe, they came or were thought to come to the works, not exercendicausi (as one saith) but exertitati, that is, learned, not to learne: Forthechiele operseer and producers under his Maiestie, to whom not onely we, but also our whole Church was much bound, knew by his wisedome, which thing also Naziancen taught so long agoe, that it is a preposterous order to teach first and to learne after, yea that ruier mily repopular purbareur to learne and practise together, is neither commendable for the workemen, nor safe for the worke. Therefore such were thought vpon, as could say modestly with Saint Hierame, Et Hebrzum Sermonem ex parte didicinus, Er in Latino penè ab ipsis incunabulis Erc. desriti sumus. Both we have learned the Hebrew tongue in part, and in the Latine wee have beene exercised almost from our verie cradle. S. Hierome maketh no mention of the Greeke tongue, wherein yet lice did excell, because hee translated not the old Testament ont of Greeke, but out of Hebrewe. And in what sort did these assemble? In the trust of their owne knowledge, or of their sharpenesse of wit, or deepenesse of judgement, as it were in an arme of flesh? At no hand. They trusted in him that hath the key of Dauid, appearing and no man shutting; they prayed to the Lord the Father of our Lord, to the effect that S. Augustine did; O let thy Scriptures be my pure delight, let me not be deceived in them, neither let me deceive by them. In this confidence, and with this deuotion did they assemble together; not too many, lest one should trouble another; and yet many, lest many things haply might escape them. If you aske what they had before them, truely it was the Hebrew text of the Olde Testament, the Greeke of the New. These are the two golden pipes, or rather conduits, where through the olive branches emptie themselves into the golde. Saint Augustine calleth them precedent, or originall tongues; Saint Hierame, fountaines. The same Saint Hierame affirmeth, and Gratian hath not spared to put it into his Decree, That as the credit of the olde Bookes (.lie meaneth of the Old Testament) is to bee tryed by the Hebrewe Volumes, sp of the New by the Greeke tongue, he meaneth by the originall Greeke. If trueth be to be tried by these tongues, then whence should a Translation be made, but out of them? These tongues therefore, the Scriptures wee sayin those tongues, wee set before vs to translate, being the tongues wherein God was pleased to speake to his Church by his Prophets and Apostles. Neither did we run over the worke with that posting haste that the Septuagint did , if that be true which is reported of them, that they finished it in 72, dayes; neither were we barred or hindered from going oner it againe, having once done it, like S. Hierome, if that be true which himselfe reporteth, that he could no sooner write any thing, but presently it was caught from him, and published, and he could not have leave to mend it: neither, to be short, were we the first that fell in hand with translating the Scripture into English, and consequently destitute of former helpes, as it is written of Origen, that hee was the first in a maner, that put his hand to write Commentaries upon the Scriptures, and therefore no marneile, if he opershot himselfe many times. None of these things : the worke both not bene hudled vo in 72, dayes, but hath cost the workemen, as light as it seemeth, the paines of twise seven times senentie two dayes and more: matters of such weight and consequence are to bee speeded with maturitie: for in a businesse of moment a man feareth not the hlame of convenient slacknesse. Neither did wee thinke much to consult the Translators or Commentators, Chaldee, Hebrewe, Sprian, Greeke, or Latine, no not the Seanish, French, Italian, or Dutch; neither did we disdaine to renise that which we had done, and to bring backe to the annill that which we had hammered: but having and vsing as great helpes as were needfull, and feating no reproch for slownesse, nor coucting praise for expedition. wee have at the length, through the good hand of the Lord ypon vs, brought the worke to that passe that you see.

Some peraduenture would have no varietie of sences to be set in the margine jest the authoritie of the Scriptures for deciding of controuersies by that show of vincertaintie, should somewhat be shaken,

But we hold their judgmet not to be so sound in this point. For though, what somer things are necessary are manifest, as S. Corysostome saith, and as S. Angustine, In these things that are plainely set downe in the dissembled, that partly to exercise and whet our wits, partly to weane the curious from loathing of of Gods spirit by prayer, and lastly, that we might be forward to seeke and of our brethren by conference, and never scorne those that be not in all respects so complete as they should bee, being to seeke in many things our selves, it hath pleased God in his divine providence, heere and there to scatter wordes and sentences of that difficultie and doubtfulnesse, not in doctrinall points that concerne sal-nation, (for in such it hath beene vouched that the Scriptures are plaine) but in matters of lesse moment, that fearefulnesse would better beseeme vs then confidence, and if we will resolue, to resolue upon modestie with S. Augustine, (though not in this same case altogether, yet you the same ground) are secret, then to strine about those things that are vincertaine. There be many words in the Scriptures, which be nener found there but once, (having neither brother nor neighbour, as the Hebrewes speake) so that we cannot be holpen by conference of places. Againe, there be many rate names of certaine birds, beastes and precious stanes, &c. concerning which the Hebrewesthemselnes are so diuided among themselnes for judgement, that they may seeme to have defined this or that, rather because they would say somthing, the because they were sure of that which they said, as S. Hierame somewhere saith of the Septuagint. Now in such a case, doth not a margine do well to admonish the Render to seeke further, and not to conclude or dogmatize vpon this or that peremptorily? For as it is a fault of incredulitic, to doubt of those things that are enident; so to determine of such things as the Spirit of God hath left (even in the judgment of the judicious)questionable, can be no lesse then presumption.

Therfore as S. Augustine saith, that varietie of Translations is profitable for the finding out of the sense of the Scriptures: so diversitie of signification and sense in the margine, where the text is not so cleare, must needes doe good, yea, is necessary, as we are personaded. We know that Sixins Quintur expresly forbiddeth, that any varietic of readings of their vulgar edition, should be put in the margine, (which though it be not altogether the same thing to that we have in hand, yet it looketh that way) but we thinke he hath notall of his owne side his fanourers for this conceit. They that are wise had rather have their indgements at libertie in differences of readings, then to be captiusted to one, when it may bragged, and that he were as free from errour by speciall priviledge, as the Dictators of Rome were made by law inuiolable, it were an other matter; then his word were an Oracle, his opinion a decision.

But the eyes of the world are now open, God be thanked, and have bene a great while, they find that selves to an vniformitie of phrasing, or to an identitie of words, as some peraduenture would wish that we had done, because they observe, that some learned men some where, have beene as exact as ously voos as they could that way. Truly, that we might not varie from the sense of that which we had translated identifie of before, if the word signified the same thing in both places (for there bee some wordes that bee not of the same sense every where) we were especially carefull, and made a conscience, according to our doctie. But, that we should expresse the same notion in the same particular word; as for example, if we translate the Hebrew or Greeke word once by Purpose, neuer to call it Intent; if one where lourneying , neuer Transiling ; if one where Thinke, neuer Suppose ; if one where Paine , neuer Ache ; if one where loy, nener Gladnesse, &c. Thus to minse the matter, wee thought to sayour more of curiositie then wisedome, and that rather it would breed scorne in the Atheist, then bring profite to the godly Reader. For is the kingdome of God become words or syllables? why should wee be in bondage to them if we may be free, vsc one precisely when wee may vsc another no lesse fit, as commodimists? A godly Father in the Primitive time showed himselfe greatly moved, that one of newfanglenes caled apailitator ani proper though the difference be little or none; and another tenority in that be was much abused for turning Cucurbita (to which reading the people had beene vsed) into Hedera. Now if this happen in better times, and vpon so small occasions, wee might justly feare hard censure, if generally wee should make verball and unnecessary changings. We might also be charged (by scoffers) with some vneouall dealing towards a great number of good English wordes. For as it is written of a certains great Philosopher, that he should say, that those logs were happie that were made images to be worshipped; for their fellowes, as good as they, lay for blockes behinde the fire: so if wee should say, as it were, vnto certaine words, Stand up higher, have a place in the Bible alwayes, and to others of like qualitie, Get ye hence, be banished for oner, wee might be taxed peraduentare with S. Iames his words, namely. To be partiall in our selves and judges of cuill thoughts. Adde hereunto, that nicenesse in wordes was alwayes counted the next step to triffing, and so was to bee curious about names too; also that we cannot follow a better patterne for elocution then God himselfe; therefore hee vsing diuers words, in his holy writ, and indifferently for one thing in nature: we, if wee will not be supersitious, may use the same libertie in our English versions ont of Hebrew & Greeke, for that copie or store that he hath given vs. Lastly, wee have on the one side anoided the scrupplositie of the Puritanes. who leave the olde Ecclesiasticall words, and betake them to other, as when they put washing for Battisme, and Congregation in stead of Church: as also on the other side we have shunned the obscuritie of the Papists, in their Azimes, Tunike, Rational, Holocausts, Prapuce, Pasche, and a number of such like, whereof their late Translation is full, and that of purpose to darken the sence, that since they must needs translate the Bible, yet by the language thereof, it may bee kept from being understood But we desire that the Scripture may speake like it selfe, as in the language of Canaan, that it may bee Many other things we might give thee warning of (gentle Reader) if wee had not exceeded the measure of a Preface alreading. It remainests, that we commend thee to God, and to the Spirit of his grace, which is able to build further then we can aske or thinke. Hee remough the scales from our eyes, the vaile from our hearts, opening our wits that wee may understand his word, enlarging our hearts, were correcting our affections, that we may love it above gold and silver, yea that we may love it to the cnd. Ye are brought vnto fountaines of lining water which yee digged not; doe not cast earth into them with the Philistines, neither preferre broken pits before them with the wicked Iewes. Others have laboured, and you may euter into their labours; O receive not so great things in value. O despise not so great saluation! Be not like swine to treade under foote so precious things, neither yet like dogs to teare and abuse holy things. Say not to our Saniour with the Gergesites, Depart out of our coasts; neither yet with Esan sell your birthright for a messe of potage. If light became into the world love not darkenesse more then light; if foode, if clothing be offered, goe not naked, starte not your selves. Remember the advise of Nationzene, It is a grievous thing (or dangerous) to neglect a great faire and to seeke to make markets afterwards: also the encouragement of S. Chrysostonee, It is also gether impossible , that he that is sober (and watchfull) should at any time be neglected : Lastly, the admonition and menacing of S. Augustine, They that despise Gods will inuiting them, shal feele Gods will taking vengeance of them. It is a fearefull thing to fall into the hands of the living God; but a blessed thing it is, and will bring va to enestacting blessednes in the end, when God speaketh vnto vs, to hearken; when he setteth his word before vs, to reade it; when hee stretcheth out his hand and calleth, to answere, Here am I; here we are to doe thy will, O God. The Lord worke a care and conscience in vs to know him and scree him, that we may be acknowledged of him at the appearing of our Lord fesus Christ, to whom with the holy Ghost, be all prayee and thankesgiving. Amen.

Hen ye have found the Sunday letter in the depermost tine, guide your eye doldnetdard from the same, till yee come right over against the Hoine, and there is the wed both what Moneth, and what day of the Honeth Caster falleth that yeere.

▼The

The Table and Kalender, expressing the order of Psalmes and Lessons to be said at Morning and Euening prayer throughout the yeere, except certaine proper feasts, as the rules following more plainely declare.

The order how the Tsalter is appointed to be read.

HePfalter (hall bee read through once every Moneth. And because that some Moneths be longer then some other be, it is thought good to make them even by this meanes.

To every moneth shal be appointed (as concerning this purpose) institutie dayes.

And because I anuary and March haue one day aboue the sayd number, and February, which is placed between eithem both, hath onely xxviij, dayes: February shall borrowe of either of the Moneths (of I anuary and March) one day: and so the Pfalter which shall bee read in February, must begin at the last day of lanuary, and end the first day of March.

And whereas May, Iuly, August, October, and December have xxxj. dayes apiece: It is ordered that the Plalmes shal be read the last day of the faid Moneths, which were read the day before, so that the Plalmes may begin againe the first day of the next moneth ensuing.

Now to know what Pfalmes shall be tead every day: Looke in the Kalender the number that is appointed for the Pfalmes, and then find the fame number in this Table, and vpon that number you shall fee what Pfalmes shall be fayd at Morning and Evening prayer.

And where the Cxix.Pfalme is divided into xxij. portions, and is overlong to be read at one time it is so ordered, that at one time shall not be read above source or five of the faid portions, as you shall perceive to be noted in this Table sollowing.

And here is also to bee noted, that in this Table, and in all other parts of the Seruice where any Pfalms are appointed, the number is expressed after the great English Bible, which from theix. Pfalme vinto the Cxviij. Pfalme, (following the division of the Hebrewes) doeth varie in numbers from the common Latine Translation.

The order bow the rest of boly Scripture (beside the Psalter) is appointed to bee read.

He old Testament is appointed for the first Lessons at Morning and Euening prayer, and shalbe read through every yeere once, except certaine Bookes and Chapters, which be least edifying and might best be spared, and therfore are less varieted.

The New Testament is appointed for the second Lessons at Moraing and Eucning prayer, and shall be read ouer orderly every yeer thrife, besides the Epistles and Gospels: except the Apocalypse, out of the which there be onely certaine Lessons appointed upon divers proper Feastles.

And to know what Lessons shall be read every day, finde the day of the Moneth in the Kalenders going before and there ye shall perceive the Bookes and Chapters that shall be read for the Lessons both at Morning and Evening prayer.

And here is to be noted, that when soener there be any proper Psalmes or Lessons appointed for the Sundayes, or for any Feast, mourable or vinnoueable; then the Psalmes and Lessons appointed in the Kalender, shall be omitted for that time.

Ye mult note also, that the Collect Epittle, and Gospel, appointed for the Sunday, shall serve all the weeke after, except there fall some Feast that hash his proper.

When

When the yeeres of our Lord may be divided into foure euch parts, which is every fourth yeere :! When the yeeres of our Lord may be dissided into houre euch parts, which is enery fourth yeere: then the Sunday letter leapeth, and that yeere the Pfalmes and Leffons which ferue to the xxii, day of February, shall be read againe the day following, except it be Sunday, which hath proper Leffons of the old Testament, appointed in the Table ferning to that purpose.

Also, where some the beginning of any Lesson, Epistle, or Gospel is not expressed, there yee must begin at the beginning of the Chapter.

And where some is not expressed how faire shall be read, there shall you reade to the ende of the Irem, fo oft as the first Chapter of Saint Manthewis read either for Lesson or Gospel, ye shall begin the same as (2000 the birth of Jesus Chass on this wife, et.) And the third Chapter of S. Lukes Gospel, shalbe read vinto, 25 etnig as was supposed, the some of Joseph, et.

Proper Lessons to bee read for the first Lessons, both at Morning and Euening prayer, on the Sundayes throughout the yeere, and for some also the second Lessons.

8 Now there arose vp a new King ouer Egypt, which knew not Ioseph.

9 And he said vnto his people, Behold, the people of the children of Israel are moe and mightier then we.

10 Come on, let vs deale wisely with them, lest they multiply, and it come to passe that when there falleth out any warre, they ioyne also vnto our enemies, and fight against vs, and so get them vp out of the land.

12 + But the more they afflicted them, the more they multiplied and grew: and they were grieued because of the children of Israel.

13 And the Egyptians made the children of Israel to serue with rigour.

14 And they made their liues bitter, with hard bondage, in morter and in bricke, and in all maner of seruice in the fielde: all their seruice wherein they made them serue, was with rigour.

15 ¶ And the King of Egypt spake to the Hebrew midwiues, (of which the name of one was Shiphrah, and the name of the other Puah.)

16 And he said, When ye do the office of a midwife to the Hebrew-women, and see them vpon the stooles, if it be a sonne, then ye shall kill him: but if it be a daughter, then shee shall live.

17 But the midwiues feared God, and did not as the King of Egypt commanded them, but saued the men children aliue.

18 And the King of Egypt called for the midwiues, & said vnto them, Why haue ye done this thing, and haue saued the men children aliue?

19 And the midwives said vnto Pharach, Because the Hebrew women are not as the Egyptian women: for they are liuely, and are deliuered ere the midwives come in vnto them.

20 Therefore God dealt well with the midwines: and the people multiplied and waxed very mighty.

21 And it came to passe, because the midwines feared God, that hee made them houses.

6 And when she had opened it, she saw the childe; and beholde, the babe wept. And she had compassion on him, and said, This is one of the Hebrewes children.

7 Then said his sister to Pharaohs daughter, Shall I goe, and call to thee a nurse of the Hebrew-women, that she may nurse the childe for thee?

8 And Pharaobs daughter said to her, Goe: And the mayd went and called the childs mother.

22 And let them judge the people at all seasons: and it shall bee that enery great matter they shall bring vnto thee. but every small matter they shal judge: so shall it be easier for thy selfe, and they shall beare the burden with thee.

23 If thou shalt doe this thing, and God command thee so, then thou shalt bee able to endure, and all this people shall also goe to their place in peace.

25 And Moses chose able men out of all Israel, and made them heads ouer the people, rulers of thousands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tennes.

26 And they judged the people at all seasons: the hard causes they brought vnto Moses, but euery small matter they iudged themselves.

S And Moses by the commaundement of the LORD, sent them from the wildernes of Paran : all those men were heads of the children of Israel.

4 Come vp vnto me, and helpe me, that we may smite Gibeon : for it hath made peace with Ioshua, and with the children of Israel.

5 Therefore the fine Kings of the Amorites, the king of Ierusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Iarmuth, the king of Lachish, the king of Eglon, gathered themselues together, and went vp, they, and all their hostes, and encamped before Gibeon, and made warre against it.

6 ¶ And the men of Gibeon sent vnto Ioshua to the campe to Gilgal, saying, Slacke not thy hand from thy seruants, come vp to vs quickly, and saue vs, and helpe vs : for all the kings of the Amorites that dwell in the mountaines, are gathered together a-

12 Then spake Ioshua to the LORD in the day when the LORD delinered vp the Amorites before the children of Israel, and hee said in the Esa, 28, 21 sight of Israel, * Sunne, † stand thou still voon Gibeon, and thou Moone in

14 And there was no day like that, before it, or after it, that the Lond hearkened vnto the voyce of a man : for the LORD fought for Israel. 15 ¶ And Joshua returned, and all 24 And it came to passe when they brought out those kings vnto Ioshua, that Ioshua called for all the men of Israel, and saide vnto the captaines of the men of war which went with bim. Come neere, put your feete voon the neckes of these kings. And they came neere, and put their feet vpon the necks of them.

25 And Ioshua said vnto them, Feare not, nor be dismaid, bee strong, and of good courage : for thus shall the Lond doe to all your enemies against whom ve fight.

26 And afterward Ioshua smote them, and slew them, and hanged them on fiue trees: and they were hanging vpon the trees vntill the euening.

2 And the LORD said vnto Gideon. The people that are with thee, are too many for me to give the Midianites into their handes, lest Israel vaunt themselues against mee, saying, Mine owne hand hath saued me

3 Now therefore go to, proclaime in the earesof the people, saying, *Whosocuer is fearefull and afraid, let him returne and depart earely from mount Gilead: and there returned of the people twentie and two thousand, & there remained ten thousand.

15 And Saul sayde, They have brought them from the Amalekites: for the people spared the best of the sheepe, and of the oxen, to sacrifice vnto the Loap thy God, and the rest we haue vtterly destroyed.

16 Then Samuel sayd vnto Saul, Stay, and I will tell thee what the Loan hath said to mee this night. And he said vnto him, Say on.

17 And Samuel said, When thou wast litle in thine owne sight, wast thou not made the Head of the tribes of Israel, and the LORD anointed thee King ouer Israel?

18 And the Lorp sent thee on a iourney, and said, Goe, and vtterly destroy the sinners the Amalekites, and fight against them, vntill tthey be consumed.

19 Wherefore then didst thou not obey the voice of the Lord, but didst flie vpon the spoile, and didst euill in the sight of the Lorp?

20 And Saul said vnto Samuel: Yea. I have obeyed the voice of the LORD, and have gone the way which the LORD sent me, and haue brought Agag the king of Amalek, and haue vtterly destroyed the Amalekites.

21 But the people tooke of the spoile, sheepe and oxen, the chiefe of the things which should have bene vtterly destroyed, to sacrifice vnto the Loan thy God in Gilgal.

22 And Samuel saide, Hath the LORD as great delight in burnt offerings and sacrifices, as in obeying the voice of the LORD? Behold, *to obey, is better then sacrifice : and to hearken, then the fat of rammes.

23 For rebellion is as the sin of twitchcraft, and stubburnnesse is as iniquitie and idolatrie: because thou hast rejected the word of the Lord, he hath also rejected thee from being king.

24 ¶ And Saul said vnto Samuel, haue sinned: for I haue transgressed the Commandement of the Lord, gone about, and passed on, and gone and thy wordes; because I feared the people, and obeyed their voice.

8 Then said Abishai to Dauid, God hath † delivered thine enemie into thine hand this day: now therefore let mee smite him, I pray thee, with the speare, even to the earth at once, and I will not smite him the second time.

9 And Dauid sayd to Abishai, Destroy him not : for who can stretch forth his hand against the Lonns Anointed, and be guiltlesse?

10 Dauid said furthermore, As the Lord liveth, the Lord shal smite him, or his day shall come to die, or hee shall descend into battell, and perish.

11 The Loup forbid that I should stretch foorth mine hand against the Lonns Anointed: but I pray thee, take thou now the speare that is at his bolster, and the cruse of water, and let 12 So Dauid tooke the speare and the cruse of water from Sauls bolster. and they gate them away, and no man saw it, nor knew it, neither awaked: for they were all asleepe, because a deepe sleepe from the Lond was fallen vpon them.

18 Then Dauid went ouer to the other side, and stood on the toppe of an hill afarre off (a great space being betweene them:)

14 And Dauid cryed to the people, and to Abner the sonne of Ner, saying, Answerest thou not, Abner? Then Abner answered, and sayd, Who art thou that cryest to the King?

15 And Dauid said to Ahner, Art not thou a valiant man? and who is like to thee in Israel? Wherefore then hast thou not kept thy lord the king? for there came one of the people in, to destroy the king thy lord.

16 This thing is not good that thou hast done: as the Lond liveth, ye are tworthy to die, because yee haue not kept your master the Loans Anointed: and now see where the Kings spears is, and the cruse of water that was at his bolster.

17 And Saul knew Dauids voyce, and said, Is this thy voice, my sonne Dauid? And Dauid saide. It is my voice, my lord, O king.

18 And he said, Wherefore doeth my lord thus pursue after his seruant? for what have I done? or what euill is in mine hand?

21 Then said Saul, I have sinned: Returne, my sonne Dauid, for I will no more doe thee harme, because my soule was precious in thine eyes this day: behold, I have played the foole, and have erred exceedingly.

22 And Dauid answered, and sayd, Behold the kings speare, and let one of the yong men come ouer and fetch it.

23 The LORD render to every man his righteousnesse, and his faithfulnesse : for the Lond delivered thee into my hand to day, but I would not stretch foorth mine hand against the Londs Anointed

24 And behold, as thy life was much set by this day in mine eyes: so let my life bee much set by in the eyes of the Lozp, and let him deliuer me out of all tribulation.

25 Then Saul said to Dauid, Blessed be thou, my sonne Dauid: thou shalt both doe great things, and also shalt still preuaile. So Dauid went on his way, and Saul returned to his place.

Nd it came to passe, after this, that the *king of the children of Ammon died, and Hanun his sonne reigned in his stead.

2 Then said Dauid, I will shewe kindnes vnto Hanun the sonne of Na hash, as his father shewed kindnes vnto me. And Dauid sent to comfort him by the hand of his seruants, for his father; and Dauids seruants came into the land of the children of Ammon.

3 And the princes of the children of Ammon saide vnto Hanun their lord, †Thinkest thou that Dauid doeth honour thy father, that he hath sent comforters vnto thee? Hath not Dauid rather sent his seruants vnto thee, to search the citie, and to spie it out, and to ouerthrow it?

4 Wherefore Hanun tooke Dauids seruants, and shaued off the one halfe of their beards, and cut off their garments in the middle, even to their buttocks, and sent them away.

5 When they told it vnto Dauid, he sent to meet them, because the men were greatly ashamed; and the King saide, Tarie at Iericho vntill your beards be growen, and then returne.

6 ¶ And when the children of Ammon saw that they stanke before Dauid, the children of Ammon sent, and hired the Syrians of Beth-Rehoh, and the Syrians of Zoba, twentie thousand footmen, and of king Maacah, a thousand men, and of Ishtob twelue thousand men.

7 And when Dauid heard of it, he sent loab, and all the hoste of the mightie men.

8 And the children of Ammon came out, and put the battell in aray at the entring in of the gate: and the Syrians of Zoba and of Rehob, and Ishtoh, and Maacah, were by themselves in the field.

9 When loab saw that the front of the battell was against him, before and behind, he chose of all the choise men of Israel, and put them in aray against the Syrians.

10 And the rest of the people he deliuered into the hand of Abishai his brother, that he might put them in aray against the children of Ammon.

11 And he said. If the Syrians bee too strong for me, then thou shalt helpe me: but if the children of Ammon bee too strong for thee, then I will come and helpe thee.

12 Be of good courage, and let vs play the men, for our people, and for the cities of our God : and the Loun doe that which seemeth him good.

13 And Ioab drew nigh, and the people that were with him, vnto the battell against the Syrians: and they fled before him.

14 And when the children of Ammon saw that the Syrians were fledde, then fled they also before Abishai, and entred into the citie: so Ioab returned from the children of Ammon, and came to ferusalem.

15 ¶ And when the Syrians sawe that they were smitten before Israel, they gathered themselues together.

16 And Hadarezer sent, and brought out the Syrians that were beyond the riuer, and they came to Helam, and Shobach the captaine of the hoste of Hadarezer went before them.

17 And when it was told Dauid, he gathered all Israel together, and passed ouer Iordane, and came to Helam: and the Syrians set themselves in aray against Dauid, and fought with him.

18 And the Syrians fled before Israel, and Dauid slew the men of seuen hundred charets of the Syrians, and fourtie thousand horsemen, and smote Shobach the captaine of their hoste, who died there.

19 And when all the kings that were servants to Hadarezer sawe, that they were smitten before Israel, they made peace with Israel, and serued them : so the Syrians feared to helpe the children of Ammon any more.

11 For when Dauid was vp in the morning, the word of the LORD came vnto the Prophet Gad Dauids Seer, 12 Goe and say vnto Dauid, Thus saith the LORD. I offer thee three things; chuse thee one of them, that I may doe it vnto thee.

13 So Gad came to Dauid, and told him, and said vnto him. Shall scuen yeeres of famine come vnto thee in thy land? or wilt thou flee three moneths before thine enemies, while they pursue thee? or that there be three dayes pestilence in thy land? Now aduise, and see what answere I shall returne to him that sent me.

14 And Dauid saide vnto Gad. I am in a great strait : let vs fall now into the hand of the LORD (for his mercies are ||great,) and let me not fall into the hand of man.

15 T So the LORD sent a pestilence vpon Israel, from the morning, euen to the time appointed : and there died of the people from Dan eyen to Beersheba, seuentie thousand men.

16 And when the Angel stretched out his hand vpon Ierusalem to destroy it, *the Lord repented him of the euill, and said to the Angel that destroyed the people, It is ynough: stay now thine hand. And the Angel of the LORD was by the threshing place of Araunah the Iebusite.

17 And Dauid spake vnto the LORD when he saw the Angel that smote the people, and said, Loe, I haue sinned, and I have done wickedly : but these sheepe, what have they done? Let thine hand, I pray thee, be against mee, 18 ¶ And Gad came that day to Dauid, and said vnto him, Goe vp, reare an Altar vnto the LORD, in the threshing floore of Araunah the Iebusite.

19 And Dauid, according to the saying of Gad, went vp, as the Lond commanded.

20 And Araunah looked, and saw the King and his servants comming on toward him : and Araunah went out, and bowed himselfe before the King on his face vpon the ground.

21 And Araunah said, Wherefore is my lord the King come to his seruant? and Dauid saide, To buy the threshing floore of thee, to build an Altar vnto the LORD, that the plague may be stayed from the people.

22 And Araunah said vnto Dauid, Let my lord the King take and offer vp what seemeth good vnto him : Beholde, here be oxen for burnt sacrifice. and threshing instruments, and other instruments of the oxen for wood.

23 All these things did Araunah, as a king, giue vnto the King: and Araunah saide vnto the King, The LORD thy God accept thee.

24 And the King said vnto Araunah, Nay, but I will surely buy it of thee at a price : neither will I offer burnt offerings vuto the LORD my God, of that which doeth cost mee nothing. So Dauid bought the threshing floore, and the oxen, for fiftie shekels of siluer.

25 And Danid built there an Altar vnto the Lord, and offered burnt offerings, and peace offerings: so the LORD was intreated for the land, and the plague was stayed from Is

4 And the damosell was very faire, and cherished the king, and ministred to 19 And he hath slaine oxen, and fat cattell, and sheepe in abundance, and hath called all the sonnes of the king, and Abiathar the Priest, and Ioab the captaine of the hoste: but Solomon thy seruant hath he not called.

20 And thou, my lord O king, the eyes of all Israel are youn thee, that thou shouldest tell them who shall sit on the throne of my lord the king after him.

21 Otherwise it shall come to passe, when my lord the king shal sleepe with his fathers, that I and my sonne Solomon shall be counted toffenders.

22 ¶ And loe, while shee yet talked with the king, Nathan the Prophet also came in.

23 And they tolde the king, saying, Beholde Nathan the Prophet. And when hee was come in before the king, he bowed himselfe before the king with his face to the ground.

24 And Nathan said, My lord O king, hast thou said, Adoniah shall reigne after mee, and hee shall sit vpon my throne?

25 For hee is gone downe this day, and hath slaine oxen, and fat cattel, and sheepe in abundance, and hath called all the kings sonnes, and the captaines of the host, and Abiathar the Priest : and behold, they eate and drinke before him. and say, † God saue king Adoniiah.

28 T Then king Dauid answered, and said, Call me Bathsheba. And she came t into the kings presence, and stood 31 Then Bathsheba bowed with her face to the earth, and did renerence to the king, and said, Let my lord king Dauid liue for euer.

32 ¶ And king Dauid said, Call me Zadok the Priest, and Nathan the Prophet, and Benaiah the sonne of Iehohada. And they came before the king.

33 The king also saide vnto them. Take with you the seruants of your lord, and cause Solomon my sonne to ride vpon t mine owne mule, and bring Het which him downe to Gihon.

34 And let Zadok the Priest, and Nathan the Prophet, anoint him there King ouer Israel and blow ye with the trumpet, and say, God saue King Solomon.

35 Then ye shall come vp after him, that hee may come and sit vpon my throne; for he shall be king in my stead: and I haue appointed him to be ruler ouer Israel, and ouer Iudah.

36 And Bensish the sonne of Ichoiada answered the King, and said, Amen: The Lond God of my lord the king say so too.

S7 As the Long bath bene with my lord the King, euen so be he with Solomon, and make his throne greater then the throne of my lord King Danid.

38 So Zadok the Priest, and Nathan the Prophet, and Benaiah the sonne of Iehoiada, and the Cherethites, and the Pelethites went downe. and caused Solomon to ride vpon King Dauids mule, and brought him to Gihon.

39 And Zadok the Priest tooke an horne of oile out of the Tabernacle, and anointed Solomon: and they blew the trumpet, and all the people said, God saue King Solomon.

40 And all the people came vp after him, and the people piped with || pipes, n Or, sutes. and reloyced with great loy, so that the earth rent with the sound of them.

41 ¶ And Adoniish and all the ghests that were with him, heard it as they had made an end of eating; and when loab heard the sound of the trumpet, hee said, Wherefore is this noise of the citie, being in an vproare?

44 And the king hath sent with him Zadok the Priest, and Nathan the Prophet, and Benaish the sonne of Iehoiada, and the Cherethites, and the Pelethites, and they have caused him to ride vpon the kings mule.

45 And Zadok the Priest, and Nathan the Prophet have anointed him king in Gihon: and they are come vp from thence rejoycing, so that the citie rang againe: this is the novee that yee haue heard.

46 And also Solomon sitteth on the throne of the kingdome.

47 And moreover, the kings seruants came to blesse our lorde king Dauid, saying, God make the name of Solomon better then thy name, and make his throne greater then thy throne. And the king bowed himselfe vpon the bed.

48 And also thus sayde the King, Blessed be the Lond God of Israel, which hath given one to sit on my throne this day, mine eyes even seeing it.

49 And all the guests that were with Adoniish, were afraid, and rose vp, and went enery man his way.

50 T And Adoniish feared because of Solomon, and arose, and went, and caught hold on the hornes of the Altar.

51 And it was tolde Solomon, saying, Behold, Adoniish feareth King Solomon: for loe, he hath caught hold on the hornes of the Altar, saying, Let King Solomon sweare vnto mee to day, that hee will not slay his seruant with the sword.

52 And Solomon sayd, If hee will shewe himselfe a worthy man, there shall not an haire of him fall to the learth : but if wickednesse shall be found in him, he shall die.

53 So king Solomon sent, and they brought him downe from the Altar. and hee came and bowed himselfe to king Solomon: and Solomon sayde vnto him, Goe to thine house.

Hiram sending to congratulate Solomon, is certified of his purpose to build the Temple, and desired to furnish him with timber thereto. 7 Hiram hlessing God for Solomon, and requesting food for his family, furnisheth him with trees. 13 The number of Solomons workemen and labourers.

Nd Hiram king of Tyre sent his seruants vnto Solomon : (for hee had heard that they had anointed him King in the roume of his father,) for Hiram was euer a louer of Dauid.

Hen *Solomon assembled the Elders of Israel, and all the heads of the tribes, the +chiefe of the fathers of the children of Israel, that they might bring vp the Arke of the Couenant of the Loan, out of the citie of Dauid, which is Zion.

2 And all the men of Israel assembled themselues vnto king Solomon, at the feast, in the moneth Ethanim, which is the seventh moneth.

4 And they brought vp the Arke of the Long, and the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and all the holy vessels that were in the Tabernacle, even those did the Priests & the Leuites bring vp.

5 And king Solomon, and all the Congregation of Israel, that were assembled vnto him, were with him before the Arke, sacrificing sheepe, and oxen, that could not bee told nor numbred for multitude.

6 And the Priests brought in the Arke of the Couenant of the Lond vnto his place, into the Oracle of the house to the most holy place, even vnder the wings of the Cherubims.

7 For the Cherubims spread forth their two wings ouer the place of the Arke, and the Cherubims covered the Arke, and the states thereof aboue.

24 Let it even bee established, that thy name may bee magnified for euer, saying, The Loan of hosts is the God of Israel, euen a God to Israel: and let the house of Dauid thy seruant be established before thee.
